WHAT IS EAST?

EAST is education accelerated by service and technology. It is a unique learning environment in which students have agency in their education, choosing not just what they learn, but also how they learn it. EAST equips classrooms with state-of-the-art technology and challenges students to use it in collaborating with partners to develop projects that solve real problems.

In doing so, EAST inspires change. Schools and communities are transformed by learners who are empowered with sophisticated tools, encouraged to think critically, and engaged in real-world experiences. The result is self-motivated learning that serves the community. Just as importantly, EAST shapes individuals to become positive agents of change who care about and seek to improve the world around them.

Since its inception in 1996, EAST has grown to serve more than 250 schools in four states, including Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Pennsylvania.
